THE THEOPHILUS YOUNGS CASE ONCE MORE BEFORE THE REFEREE.

Heged Theophilus Identified by Many Witnesses as the Man who was Relieved to be Dead-Mrs. Youngs Righly Indignant. The Theophilus Youngs case came up again yesterday before Referee E. F. Underhill. The venerable Isaac S. Morse of Boston, one of Mrs. Mary I. C. Youngs's lawyers, said: "It ts all the cases I ever saw. I thought that I had seen almost everything in an experience of forty years, but this beats them all." Briefly told the case is this: Twelve years age Henry Youngs died, leaving some property in real estate in this city. His nephew, Henry Youngs of Goshen, was appointed executor, and brother, Theophilus Youngs, was one of the residuary legatees. The value of the estate is variously estimated at from $20,000 to $250,-000. The executor puts it at the former figure. In 1870, while the estate was in litigation, Theophilus Youngs and his wife, in condeferation of $2,200 paid them by Henry Youngs, signed over to him all their right and title to Theophilus's share in the estate. In 1875 Theophilus Youngs disappeared. In 1877 Mrs. Theophilus Youngs took out letters of administration in this city on her husband's estate. The Surrogate granted the letters, and also letters of guardianship, on affidavits presented by Mrs. Youngs that her husband was dent. She made claim to her husband's shar of the estate, alleging that the quit claim deed had been improperly procured by Henry Youngs. He at once defended his position by attempting to show that he had bought the deed in good faith; that Mrs. Youngs had no right to obtain letters of administration in New York, since she was a resident of Boston; and he attempted to have the letters of administration set aside on the ground that Theophilus Youngs was still alive. 1875 Theophilus Youngs disappeared. In 1877 set aside on the ground that Theophilus Youngs was still alive.

In 1879 the matter came before Surrogate Calvin upon affidavits. One set affirmed that Theophilus Youngs was alive; the other that his dead body had been found in the water at Lewis's wharf. Boston, and taken to the Morgue, and there identified by two wineases. The affidavits were so conflicting that the Surrogate decreed that C. G. Saunders of Boston should take testimony there, and this was done hast summer. In August last an allowed Theophilus Youngs appeared in Boston, and was identified as the husband of Mrs. Mary I. C. Youngs by several witnesses. Then the Surrogate appointed E. F. Underhill of this city a referse to take testimony here. Some testimony was taken in October, and then the case went over until yesterday, when several witnesses appeared for Henry Youngs and identified Theophilus Youngs.

went over until vesterday, when several watnesses appeared for Henry Youngs and identifled Theophilus Youngs.

The first witness was Mrs. Emma Budderforth. a pleasant-faced, neatly-dressed lady.
She testified that when she was 4 years old she was adopted by Cranston Laurie of Washington, D.C., with whom she lived until she married. Mr. Laurie's family consisted of his wife, his daughter Mary Isabel C., and his two sons, James C. and Lewis F. L. Mary Isabel was married to James M. Miller.

"Where's Mr. Miller now?" asked Lawyer
Drake.

James C. and Lewis F. L. Mary Isabel was married to James M. Miller.

"Where's Mr. Miller now?" asked Lawyer Drake.

"They say that he's dead." was the answer. Then Mrs. Rudderforth said that afterward Mary Isabel married Theophilus Youngs. They lived in Mr. Laurie's family for several years, and witness saw Theophilus Youngs frequently.

"Theophilus Youngs." called Lawyer Drake, and a medium-sized, well-dressed man, with a striking face, curiously wide between the eyes, came from an adjoining room.

"Do you know this man?" Mr. Drake inquired of the witness.

She smiled and said. "Certainly; that's Mr. Theophilus Youngs."

Then, after some legal sparring, Mrs. Rudderforth was permitted to tell of Theophilus's first visit to her after his disappearance from Washinston in 1874.

"A Mr. Sweet came to our house one evening." she said, "with another gentleman, and when I went lato the parlor he began to introduce him to me as Mr. Brown; but I recognized him as Theophilus. They stayed some time at my home, and we talked over old times."

The witness was then shown four photographs—one of a woman, the others of a man. The photographs of the man seemed to be likenesses of the same person taken at different periods in his life. Mrs. Rudderforth recognized the photographs of the womans at hat of Mrs. Mary Isabel C. Youngs, wife of Theophilus Youngs. The others, she said, were photographs of Theophilus. One of them resembled him as he looked when she saw him last, in 1874. The others looked as he does now. She had not the slightest doubt as to the identity of Theophilus Youngs, whom she had just seen.

Cross-examined by Mr. Morse, Mrs. Rudderforth mentioned the different places where she had seen Theophilus. One of them resembled him as he looked when she saw him last, in 1874. The others looked as he does now. She had not the slightest doubt as to the identity of Theophilus Youngs. The photographs of the womans, the bad were photographs of the womans and the city of the sons of Cranston Laurie, and a brother of Mrs. Mary did he see Theophilus until the 24th of October last.

At this point Mrs. Theophilus Youngs and her daughter Florence entered the room. Mrs. Youngs is a large woman, apparently 40 years old, with a ruddy face, bright black eyes, very slight eyebrows, and a mouth denoting considerable determination. She was plainly dressed. Her daughter is about 18 years of age. She was well dressed. The witness identified them as the wife sand daughter of the man who answering the call, came from the inner room.

Idenard H. Atkinson of Boston testified that Mr. and Mrs. Theophilus Youngs in the fall of 1874, rented rooms at 309 Tremont street, Boston, from him. He saw them almost every day. The family consisted of Mr. and Mrs. Youngs, a little daughter, Alice, and a little boy. The witness had his attention particularly called to the family because they did not pay their rent. In June, 1875, Theophilus disappeared, and Mr. Atkinson didn't see him again until August last, when he met him in a hotel in Boston. "I have not the slightest doubt that this is Theophilus Youngs," said the witness.

This closed the testimony for the day. After the adjournment, Mr. Atkinson asked Florence why she did not recognize her father. The girl put on a piqued expression, and quit the room, lier mother expressed great indignation at a suggestion that she should give up the struggle, and she left the building with a heavy frown on her face.

The usual class has been graduated, and there is now a large body of officers well instructed in the use of torpedoes in naval warrare.

Capt. Earl English, in charge of the Bureau of Equipment and Recruiting, reports that during the year seventy-five vessels have been wholly or partly equipped at the several navy yards at an expenditure for labor of $68.872.18 and for material of $624.380.43. An increased appropriation for equipment of vessels for the ensuing fiscal year is rendered necessary by the depletion of the stock on hand at the several navy yards repairs to be made and new machinery to be supplied at the Boston Navy Yard, the advanced price of coal, and the necessity of filling up our coal depois at home and abroad, the supply being nearly exhausted. There were 7.322 men and boys in the service on June 30 last. The enlistments during the year to rewore that he was Theophilus Youngs.

Bernard J. Beck's Death.

In the case of Bernard J. Beck of 31 Brevoort place, Brooklyn, who shot himself on Saturday last, Dr. Thomas Wilde, the family physician, testified before the such a diseased condition that he was suspicious of his food and feared that he would be poisoned. It had been contemplated to not him in an asylum. The pistol shot that killed Mr. Beck was fired into the abdonen, and it passed downward and out of the body. Mr. Beck was partly dressed at the time of the shooting, and the witness thought that he was probably toying with the pitol when he shot himself. Mrs. Minnie 8. Beck testified that her hisband's mind was diseased, and they were threatened to do so. Some days before his death he was more metanchely than usual. The Coroner's jury determined that Mr. Beck's death was caused by a shot wound from a pistol in his own hands, but they could not positively determine whether the shot was fired by design. Mr. Beck's life was insured.
